Step 2: I start Read the dialogue between 2 friends, Lyra and Will. Then complete the exercise below. Lyra: Hi Will! What are you doing? Will: Hey Lyra! I'm reading a book about the northern lights. Lyra: Oh, that sounds interesting. Do you often read science books? Will: Yes, I do. I love learning about science. What about you? What are you doing right now?	Audio à déposer sur le Cloud

Lyra: I'm looking for my notebook. I think I left it in the library.
Will: You always forget your things!
Lyra: I know... I usually carry it in my bag, but today I'm using a different one.
Will: Are you working on the history project?
Lyra: Yes, I am. I work on it every weekend, but this week I'm starting early.
Will: Good idea.

Exercise: Choose the right answer.

If the action is happening now, we use

- Subject + base verb (infinitive)
- Subject + Be (am/is/are) + V-ing

If the action is a fact or something that happens regularly, we use

- Subject + base verb (infinitive)
- Subject + Be (am/is/are) + V-ing

2. Complete the quiz.
3. Read the lesson below.

Part 1: video

Part 2: quiz

When do we use present simple and present continuous?

Drag and drop: Temporary situations / Permanent situations / Facts / Something that is happening now / Something that happens regularly

Present simple	Present continuous
Something that happens regularly	Something that is happening now
Permanent situations	Temporary situations
Facts

Examples

Drag and drop: I'm not wearing a raincoat because it is not raining. / I don't work in the modelling industry. / Do your friends live in London? / My parents are staying with me this week. I am sleeping on the sofa. / I work at the BBC. / John checks his email every morning. / Are you sending an email? / My brother doesn't like fashion. / Does John check his email in the morning? / I'm working at the moment. / My sister lives in China. / Are we talking about questions? / Emily is wearing a pink hat today.

Present simple	Present continuous
Affirmative sentences
John checks his email every morning.	I'm working at the moment.
My sister lives in China.	My parents are staying with me this

	week. I am sleeping on the sofa.
I work at the BBC.	Emily is wearing a pink hat today.
Negative sentences
I don't work in the modelling industry.	I'm not wearing a raincoat because it is not raining.
My brother doesn't like fashion.
Questions
Do your friends live in London?	Are you sending an email?
Does John check his email in the morning?	Are we talking about questions?

Part 3: Additional information

a. Contractions

Notice the following sentences in the chart above:

- I'm working at the moment.*
- I don't work in the modelling industry.
- My brother doesn't like fashion.

The parts in bold are called contractions. There are 2 types of contractions: contractions with "be" and contractions with "not".

1. Contractions with "be"

Present continuous: We can make a contraction by combining the pronoun and "be" verb (in its correct form).

I am → I'm	We are → We're
You are → You're	You are → You're
He is → He's She is → She's It is → It's	They are → They're

2. Contractions with "not"

It is very common to make contractions with "not".

Present continuous:

is not → isn't	are not → aren't
----------------	------------------

Present simple:

do not → don't	does not → doesn't
----------------	--------------------

b. Stative verbs

Stative verbs describe a state rather than an action. They are usually used in the present simple form.

Stative verbs often relate to:

- thoughts and opinions: agree, believe, guess, imagine, know, mean, remember, think, understand
- feelings and emotions: dislike, hate, like, love, prefer, want, wish
- senses and perceptions: appear, be, feel, hear, look, see, seem, smell, taste
- possession and measurement: belong, have, measure, own, possess, weigh.

Step 4: Summary

Part I: Structure:

Present simple tense:

Subject + base verb (+ "s" or "es" with he, she, it)

Examples: I go / You live / He watches / She drives / It rains / We think / You call / They fight

Present continuous tense

Subject + be (am, is or are) + V-ing

Examples: I am going / You are living / He is watching / She is driving / It is raining / We are thinking / You are calling / They are fighting

Part II: When to we use present simple or present continuous?

We use the present simple tense (subject + base verb) for:

- things that we do regularly (I eat fruit every day),
- truths and permanent situations. (The Earth revolves around the Sun)
- facts (France welcomes around 90 million tourists each year)

We use the present continuous tense (subject + be (am/is/are) + V-ing) for:

- things that are happening at the time we are speaking (I am studying English at the moment),
- temporary situations (He is staying with his dad for a few weeks)

Part III: Contractions:

1. Contractions with "be"

Present continuous: We can make a contraction by combining the pronoun and "be" verb (in its correct form).

I am → I'm	We are → We're
You are → You're	You are → You're
He is → He's	They are → They're
She is → She's
It is → It's

2. Contractions with "not"

It is very common to make contractions with "not".

Present continuous:

is not → isn't	are not → aren't
----------------	------------------

Present simple:

do not → don't	does not → doesn't
----------------	--------------------

Part IV. Stative verbs

Stative verbs describe a state rather than an action. They are usually used in the present simple form.

Stative verbs often relate to:

- thoughts and opinions: agree, believe, guess, imagine, know, mean, remember, think, understand

- feelings and emotions: dislike, hate, like, love, prefer, want, wish
- senses and perceptions: appear, be, feel, hear, look, see, seem, smell, taste
- possession and measurement: belong, have, measure, own, possess, weigh.

French:

Partie I : Structure

Présent simple :

Sujet + verbe de base (+ "s" ou "es" avec he, she, it)

Présent en -ing (présent continu) :

Sujet + verbe be (am, is ou are) + verbe en -ing

Partie II : Quand utilise-t-on le présent simple ou le présent en -ing ?

On utilise le présent simple (sujet + verbe de base) pour :

- des actions que l'on fait régulièrement,
- des vérités ou des situations permanentes,
- des faits.

On utilise le présent en -ing (sujet + be + verbe en -ing) pour :

- des actions en train de se dérouler au moment où l'on parle,
- des situations temporaires.

Partie III : Les contractions

1. Contractions avec be

Au présent en -ing, on peut contracter le pronom et le verbe be (à sa forme correcte).

I am → I'm	We are → We're
You are → You're	You are → You're
He is → He's She is → She's It is → It's	They are → They're

2. Contractions avec not

Il est très courant de faire des contractions avec not.

Présent en -ing:

is not → isn't	are not → aren't
----------------	------------------

Présent simple:

do not → don't	does not → doesn't
----------------	--------------------

Partie IV : Les verbes d'état (stative verbs)

Les verbes d'état décrivent un état plutôt qu'une action. Ils sont généralement utilisés au présent simple.

Les verbes d'état se rapportent souvent à :

- la pensée et les opinions : agree, believe, guess, imagine, know, mean, remember, think, understand
- les sentiments et émotions : dislike, hate, like, love, prefer, want, wish
- les sens et perceptions : appear, be, feel, hear, look, see, seem, smell, taste
- la possession et les mesures : belong, have, measure, own, possess, weigh.

Step 11: For teachers

[Speaking and writing]

Teacher asks a few students to share the sentences they have prepared (“I share” section) and writes them on the board. Students have to turn the sentences into negative ones, and/or into questions.

[Speaking]

Teacher asks students to look around and describe what their classmates are doing.

[Speaking and writing]

Students write down questions to ask their classmates about their daily and/or weekly routine (ex. Do you get up early? Do you take the bus to school? etc), then take it in turns to ask and receive answers.
