	When asking for directions from a stranger in the street, you need to be polite and clear. Always start with “Excuse me ...[pause]...” then make sure that the essential information – the place you wish to find – is emphasized. Listen to and repeat the following examples. Excuse me, how do I get to the bus stop, please? Excuse me, where is the nearest bank, please? Excuse me, can you tell me the way to the bus station, please? Excuse me, can you tell me the way to the police station, please? Excuse me, do you know the way to the shopping mall? Excuse me, do you know how to get to the market place? Excuse me, is there a bank near here? I’m sorry, I don’t know. I’m sorry, I’m not from around here.	Besoin d’audio

Audio

V1: Excuse me, is there a bakery near here please?

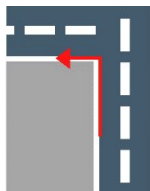

V2: Yes, there's one on the main street. As you leave the train station, turn left and go down the road. There's a very good bakery on your left, between the post office and the bank, and opposite the art gallery.

V1: Thank you. Do you know if they sell sandwiches?

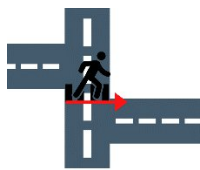

V2: Yes, but there may be none left at this time. You could also try the supermarket. Continue along the road and take the second right past the museum, then the first left. The supermarket is on the corner next to the swimming pool.

3) Type in the word to fill in the gap according to the image. (5 points)

Turn left.

Cross the road.

Go over the bridge.

Take the second right.

Step 9: I share

Study this map of Dublin and choose a location shown. Starting from Trinity College (bottom right), prepare a set of instructions to guide someone to your chosen location. Be prepared to share your instructions with a classmate to check whether your instructions are clear and they end up in the expected location!

This video goes through the whole process of asking for and understanding directions, including how to get attention politely.

Step 11: For teachers

*Cachée pour les
étudiants*

I share – print out copies of the map of Dublin given in the “I share” section, to be used in-class. Students take it in turns to give directions using the map, to see if their colleagues can follow and end up in the same place.

Writing exercises

Choose a location in this building, and write out instructions indicating how to get there, WITHOUT naming the final location. Students then exchange copies and try to follow their classmate’s instructions – to see where they end up!

Other activities

Prepositions practice: “Scribble” – game in which students take it in turns giving instructions (to each other or to the class) how to draw a simple image (a house, a car, a bicycle etc.) WITHOUT naming the object (“Draw a circle. Draw another circle next to the first circle. Draw a line between the two circles...”)
